

Council Approves Of $36,000 Water Plant At Cotter St. Site

Saving Of $6,000 Passed Up In Favor Of More Modern Plant On New Site At Cotter St.

A new reservoir and pumping station will be constructed by the town at the Cotter St. well site at an estimated cost of $14,200, it was decided at a special town council meeting on Tuesday evening.

"This is the most progressive resolution you have put through in 25 years," Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales told the council.

There would have been a saving of $6,000 if the town had decided to use the present pumping station and reservoir on Cotter St., but the saving wouldn't justify the loss of advantages, in the opinion of consulted engineers.

The well itself will cost another $18,000, making a total cost of $36,000, Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee, stated.

"We would have paid that much a while ago to get a well," Mr. Evans commented.

N. L. Mathews, K.C., suggested that in view of the town's abundant water the town could dispense with meters and impose a flat rate. This would save considerable expense, he stated.

"Some of the present meters aren't working," he also commented.

"We are losing hundreds of dollars," said Dr. Dales. The proposals adopted by the council were presented by H. A. Babcock of Margison & Babcock, Toronto consulting engineers.

"The water as pumped from the Cotter St. well should be delivered to a reservoir because the reservoir provides storage required when repairs have to be made on the deep well pump and when power is interrupted, also because it provides aeration and a limited amount of iron precipitation," Mr. Babcock said.

An "iron removal filter" may be required at a future time, due to a change in the quality of the water, and the pump-house plan should provide for such an addition in future if needed, Mr. Babcock said.

Mr. Babcock recommended two pumps to deliver the water (Page 8, Col. 4)

Daw of Toronto, who will be in charge of the 2nd Newmarket troop of Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs camp at Sibbald's Point from Aug. 10 to 25, will meet the boys and give them a talk on camp routine and activities at Trinity church hall on Friday at 7.30 p.m. Between 40 and 50 boys have already registered for the camp. Robert Martin, president of the Boy Scouts Association, told The Era this week.

U.S. TOURIST TRAFFIC HEAVY WEEKLIES FIND

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS CREDITED WITH STIMULATING TRAFFIC

Gathered from many quarters of the province, the part that the weekly newspapers have played and are playing in stimulating the return of the tourist business to Ontario makes interesting reading. The efforts thus put forth by the publishers have been "given wings," as it were, from time to time, by the weekly newspapers' radio commentators, Andy Clarke, in his Sunday morning broadcasts of "Neighborhood News." In his fourth or fifth round-up of the situation on Sunday The Newmarket Era was quoted. Mr. Clarke spoke as follows:

"We are pleased to report this morning that American tourists do not frighten easily. Gasoline conservation regulations notwithstanding, the tide of visitors to Ontario's playgrounds runs high—in fact, it is now in full flood. Insidious propaganda of fifth columnists, directed against Canada, seems to have been effectively rebuffed. Gasoline conservation and the reasons therefor are not unknown to American holiday-seekers and they are resourceful enough to plan according to their requirements.

"The Huntsville Forester says: 'The Huntsville and Lake of Bays region, and, indeed all Muskoka, is experiencing a record-breaking tourist trade. Every tourist house appears to be filled, with few cottages or rentable cabins available to take care of the overflow. New cabins are being rushed to completion in many sections each week. Reports received by the Muskoka Tourist Association's head office at Gravenhurst indicate that never before has the number of American visitors reached the high figure of the present season."

"And, speaking for the great district of Huronia, the Midland Free Press says: 'It is good to see the Americans back in such large numbers. We welcome them with more enthusiasm than ever this year because they are now our allies against the unspeakable Hun. It has not become a 'shooting war' with them, but that is only because Hitler has not chosen to shoot.' The Free Press then quotes Frank McDowell, author of 'The Champlain Road' and a tourist executive of the Canadian National Railways, as saying: 'Huronia has everything. It is without a rival for dramatic history, scenery and summer sport.'"

"The Muskoka Herald of Bracebridge emphasizes the obligation and patriotic duty of all Canadian tradesmen to pay Americans the ten percent premium on United States money. (Page 8, Col. 7)

2,500 ATTEND ANNUAL STREET DANCE AT KING

The fourth annual street dance held at King City and sponsored by the Lake Marie and King City Athletic association drew a crowd of more than 2,500 people. Proceeds from the refreshment booth, conducted by the Women's Institute, and the dance, will be used for war work.

C. E. Warkington, president of the association, supervised the dance.

HOUSE OF REFUGE COW ESTABLISHES FINE RECORD

Kenevelyn Rag Apple Patricia, junior two-year-old Holstein heifer bred and owned by the York County House of Refuge, Newmarket, leads the two-year-old R.O.P. division this month for Canada according to information released by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Brantford.

In 365 days, on strictly twice per day milking, this heifer has completed a record under R.O.P. of 15,703 lbs. milk, 2.92 per cent fat, 616 lbs. fat. According to Major D. E. Sprague, superintendent, this record was made under ordinary farm conditions, and is only a forerunner of a number of other fine records now in progress at this York county institution.

This herd is maintained to provide the highest quality milk and milk products for the requirements of the inmates. While the herd is small in number, some splendid R.O.P. records have been made in the past, and many more are in the making. His many friends and well wishers are extending their congratulations to Major Ernie Sprague upon the completion of this fine record which reflects credit upon this York county institution.

TAKES UNION SERVICES

"Christianity is so blood-red that it makes communism look anemic," said Rev. Arthur Greer to a united Trinity and Christian congregation in his own church on Sunday morning. Denominations Mr. Greer spoke of as "unnecessary things."

WOULD PREVENT ACCIDENTS

E. J. Davis, Newmarket, a former chairman of the Leather, Rubber and Tanners Safety Association, told a meeting of the organization at Kitchener last week that safety education in industry has great value. He also mentioned that thousands of accidents happen in homes.

Pay Town Councillors, Says Former Municipal Man

SECURES GRANT FOR BUGLE BAND AND URGES COUNCIL SALARIES

"He's an Irish diplomat. How can we refuse? He asks for a grant and then winds up by recommending that we be paid."

This was the answer of Reeve Fred A. Lundy, chairman of the finance committee, to ex-Warden J. O. Little, when the latter asked a grant of $80 to pay the cost of transporting the R.S.A. bugle band to Waterloo, where they won high honors for the town.

Mr. Little said that he had noted an excellent suggestion in the Newmarket Express-Herald, that the town councillors should be paid for their services.

"The councillors get nothing but abuse," said Mr. Little. "This town is long overdue to see that its representatives get remuneration for what they do. There are only two towns in the province, Newmarket and Aurora, that don't pay their councillors. I have been busy myself in seeing several of the biggest taxpayers, and they all agree that it is a shame."

"My suggestion is that, if you haven't got the power to vote yourselves a salary, you put it to a vote of the people, and I'll guarantee that you'll get the support of 90 percent of the people who are interested in the town's affairs."

Expect To Raise Over $500 For War Victims

The York County Junior Farmers are again out to do their share in war relief work. Taking up a generous offer of a free dance pavilion and orchestra from Geo. Davies, manager of the Cedar Beach Dance Gardens at Musselman's Lake, the Junior Farmers are staging a dance and draw on Monday, Aug. 18, guaranteeing to the Evening Telegram's B.V.V. fund at least $500.

The dancing pavilion at Musselman's is one of the largest and finest in Ontario, which, combined with the popularity of Ozzie Williams' orchestra (at one time playing in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa), makes the offer from Mr. Davies very attractive.

The Juniors have also decided to run a draw on the admission tickets and have solicited the help of commercial companies and groups of individuals, with the result that $250 worth of draw prizes are offered. Among some of the prizes are a purchased Guernsey calf, a purchased Yorkshire sow, a 1942 radio, $25 worth of merchandise and $30 worth of commercial feed besides 11 other prizes.

Already 1,000 tickets have been distributed throughout the county and the rapidity of the sale shows the interest of the public in this endeavor. It is hoped that more than $500 can be raised for the fund, and that people will contribute generously. All expenses will be paid by the Junior Farmers and the total receipts will be turned over to the fund.

KESWICK GETS THAT PLAY-OFF PLACE

Keswick won the fourth play-off berth in the Lake Simcoe league by defeating Willow Beach 4-3 in a game as close as the score indicated at Keswick on Friday evening.

It was Keswick's best effort of the year. Bill Lawton pitched. The famous "Flash" Hollett played shortstop.

Cec. McNeil pitched for Willow Beach. Keswick established a lead about the fourth inning, but was never headed off.

In the first of the seventh Willow Beach scored two runs, and had two on base when the side was retired.

C. E. Cunningham, Newmarket, Canada Life man, was in charge of the game.

FINDS HOUSING SCARCE

"Newmarket is worse than Barrie," a soldier's wife told The Era this week after she had walked a good many miles in vain efforts to find the kind of accommodation she wanted.

IS ENTHUSIAST

Mrs. Julia Brice, mother of the secretary of the Newmarket Veterans Association, S. J. Brice, is still going strong at 77, and heartily enjoyed the Veterans' boxing show on Friday evening.

Mrs. Brice particularly liked the two youngsters. "They were good for their age," said Mrs. Brice.

Mrs. Brice has seen a lot of boxing in the old country. She is "up from Somerset." "I've seen enough to open the eyes of the blind," was one of Mrs. Brice's picturesque phrases in telling of things she had seen in the old country.

Mrs. Brice cheered and clapped the fighters on Friday evening.

TANNERS CLIMB TO TOP OF HARBALL LADDER

The final game of the Newmarket hardball schedule was run off at the local ball park on Tuesday evening when the Davis Leather and the M.T.C. clashed in a postponed game. The tanners took the game by a 9-6 score. This victory for the north enders brought them up in a tie for top spot in the local league.

Bates, diminutive shortstop for the army lads, poled a long home-run over the right-field fence to open the scoring in the first inning. The tanners evened the score in their half of the first, Jack Wright crossing the plate.

Both teams went down in order in the second. The Davis squad took the lead in their turn in the third, pushing across five runs on a homer by Cliff Gunn, a single by Jack Wright and doubles by Geo. Haskett and Bob Peters.

In the fourth the leather gang added two more when Geo. Haskett's double, which bounced over the right-field fence, scored Jack Wright and Cap. Fairley. Cliff Gunn's second homer of the night to open up the fifth, brought over the north enders' final counter, to make their score nine.

In the sixth the Camp squad came to life at the plate, after being set down in order from the first inning by the clever pitching of Freddy Lusted on the mound for the tanners. Gill reached first on an error, Grimrod doubled and Jackson brought both men home on a single over second.

In the seventh the Camp lads staged a rally. Haskett walked and consecutive hits by Bates, Miller, Gill and Grimrod pushed across three runs to bring their count up to six.

This game wound up the league schedule, with the Davis Leather and M. T. C. tying for first place, Town following, and Specialty bringing up the rear. The semi-finals open on Friday evening, with the Davis Leather hooking up with the Office Specialty squad in the first two out of three series.

On Monday evening of next week the Town and M. T. C. meet in the first of their semi-final series, this also being a two out of three game series. The winners of these two series meet in the finals for the league championship. Don't miss these two games, as plenty of action is bound to be thrown into these semi-final games.

ROCKET "BOMBS" WILL MARK LIONS CARNIVAL

Newmarket is to be bombed on the evening of Wednesday, Aug. 20, when the Lions club carnival committee will fire a rocket bomb to signal the start of the parade from the King George school grounds at 7.30 o'clock.

This opening barrage will be followed by the march on the Lions park by all the boys and girls with their decorated "motorized units." The capture of the park will be celebrated by the firing of coupon bombs which will liberate hundreds of small coupons to float over the park.

Some of these coupons will entitle the finders to certain treats at the carnival booths. The Strand theatre is kindly donating a matinee pass to all children in costume in the parade.

The committee has secured attractive prizes for the various games this year and is making some changes in the set-up of games. A feature that will appeal to young and old alike will be a variety show featuring Rex Slocombe, one of Toronto's cleverest and most entertaining magicians, Miss Mary Anderson, an attractive and accomplished tap and acrobatic dancer and Newmarket's own Victor Higginson with his famous marionette show.

A number of performances will be given throughout the evening, when the patrons will appreciate an opportunity to rest in the large seated tent. A special free performance will be presented for children up to 12 years of age.

The proceeds of the carnival as always will be used solely for the club's local child welfare work and for the war work being carried on by the Lions. Many a family in Newmarket has been made happier by the untiring and unselfish work of the Lions in the removal of tonsils, sight conservation, limb corrections, as well as providing Christmas baskets to many needy families, furnishing a park and making welfare organizations.

If the Lions carry on this work 12 months of the year and pay their own memberships and pay for meals at their luncheons to maintain a service club, the people of Newmarket and district will gladly see that the park is packed to capacity for a bang-up time a week from next Wednesday evening to support the Lions in their splendid work.

SOLDIER IS INJURED ON WAY HOME FOR WEEKEND

Rushing to catch his bus, which was heading toward Toronto, Pte. A. J. Olson, who is stationed at Camp Borden, was knocked to the pavement by a car, south of Bradford, on Saturday. He was on his way home for the weekend. Pte. Olson suffered a fractured right leg, broken arm and facial lacerations. He was removed to Newmarket military hospital, and was later taken to the Toronto military hospital. Provincial Officer Howard Jackman is investigating.

North York Boys Are Now In Training At Niagara-On-Lake

"C" Company With Newmarket Battery Are Favorites For Battalion Ball Championship

Niagara-on-the-Lake.—Early Sunday morning, when the peaceful burghers of Newmarket, Aurora and Richmond Hill were peacefully sleeping, some of the cream of North York's youth left by truck to join the county regiment, the historic Queen's York Rangers, for their annual two weeks training in the reserve corps of Canada's militia.

After drawing rifles and bayonets at Fort York armories, Toronto, laden with full packs, C company, headed by Captain D. O. Mungovan, now acting second-in-command of the regiment, fell in with the battalion and marched to the docks. Colonel John Hyde Bennett, V.D., O.C. of the regiment, led his men aboard the Cayuga and the entire battalion made an impressive showing that was warmly applauded by the spectators and holiday seekers who lined the route.

Arrived at Niagara, the battalion made the two-mile march to camp. Col. R. E. Smythe, D.S.O., M.C., camp commandant, taking the salute. At camp a hot meal prepared by a capable staff was awaiting the men. Roast beef, potatoes, carrots, bread pudding and tea composed the first meal which miraculously disappeared. There was plenty for everyone and no one went short of rations. Then came tenting, with an (Page 8, Col. 5)

Civic And Factory Employees Receive Living Allowance

Council Grants Employees Temporary Increase In Wages
Town employees are to receive an increased cost of living allowance, the town council decided at a meeting on Tuesday evening. Councillor A. D. Evans, who made the motion, said that factory employees will be receiving a similar allowance in the next week or two, effective Aug. 1, and the resolution provided that the town allowance be on a similar scale when the factory allowance is known.

"I want to remind you that our employees got a raise in January," Reeve F. A. Lundy said in the course of the discussion.

BUY EQUIPMENT FROM RACHAR

A meter-testing board belonging to C. C. Rachar, former town water and light superintendent, was purchased by the town council for $250, at a council meeting on Tuesday evening.

Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee, recommended the purchase, "because we need it."

Mr. Evans said that Mr. Rachar said he had made it from his own materials in his spare time. Councillor Frank Bowser questioned Mr. Evans closely about the ownership of the materials.

Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale said that Mr. Rachar said he didn't have a holiday last year and that Mr. Rachar thought he was entitled to two weeks' pay. Mr. Evans disagreed, and the holiday was disallowed.

Councillor A. D. Evans raised the question of appointing a new engineer. "It's a question for council to say if we should advertise for a man," said Mr. Evans. Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales advocated advertising immediately.

"Have we a man down there capable of carrying on?" asked Councillor Frank Bowser.

"For the time being, yes," said Mr. Evans. "The question is whether you are going on rebuilding the plant. It is no use having an engineer unless you are going to spend money. Mr. Rachar has been doing nothing because we didn't have the money. It's no use having a man if you don't give him the equipment to work with."

"That's a figment of your imagination," said Mr. Vale. "He was spending $8,000 to $8,000 a year."

Aluminum Dump Urged By Returning Town Solicitor

N. L. MATHEWS AND PARTY RETURN FROM TRIP TO WEST

Expansion of Newmarket's salvage campaign, through the use of an aluminum collection depot, was suggested by N. L. Mathews, K.C., town clerk and solicitor, at a town council meeting on Tuesday evening.

The proposal was not discussed. Mr. Mathews had just returned from western Canada by motor-car via the United States. "Nearly every little town in the U.S. has a place in the centre of the town for people to bring their aluminum," said Mr. Mathews. "There were places piled higher than this room with aluminum. Newmarket could have a place at the market square."

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. W. E. Lyons and Miss Beatrice Lyons went as far as Emerald Lake, B.C., on their trailer trip. They travelled a total of 6,000 miles from July 3 to Aug. 4. That included a trip to Jasper park. They left here on July 3 and arrived in Calgary July 10.

"The Calgary stampede was sensational," said Mr. Mathews. "It was hair-raising. Ridding the bucking steers and horses, and the chuck-wagon race provided lots of excitement."

CLERGYMAN GIVES FARMS HELPING HAND

"There will be no grain left in the fields, but it is going to be hard shelling for many farmers," W. M. Cockburn, York county agricultural representative, told The Era this week on the progress of harvesting operations.

"In the southern part of the county, where they have thrashed, farmers are pleased with the quality of the grain that they are getting," said Mr. Cockburn.

One Newmarket citizen at least, Rev. Arthur Greer, has taken seriously the appeal for town people to try to give a day a week to the farmers. Mr. Greer has put in two or three half days on various farms since his return from holidays last week.

A subscription to The Era will make a friend happy.

JOHNNY O'CONNOR IS REGIMENTAL CHAMP

Pte. Johnny O'Connor of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, now stationed at Nanaimo, B.C., has lost none of his boxing ability since joining the ranks, and is the present champion of his regiment, having defeated Jimmy Melora of the C.S.R. on July 27.

WOULD HELP GREEKS

Charlotte Lunau married Lyman Helmkay, and following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Helmkay farmed at Musselman's Lake, until coming to Newmarket. Mrs. Helmkay resided with her son, W. J. Helmkay, an only child, who survives. Mr. Helmkay predeceased her several years ago.

She was a member of the United church. Her interests were chiefly in the home.

WHAT FARMERS WANT IN MARKET TOWNS

A country reader brings us in a ready-made editorial. It is a letter addressed by a "Farmer's Wife" to the publication, "Canadian Countryman." After remarking that "if we only had one-quarter the pay per hour that government workers receive, one year of such income would put us in the millionaire class," the writer gets down to her "immediate trouble," which is parking for Saturday night's shopping in town.

"No matter how early we go after our chores are completed, all parking space convenient to the stores is occupied by cars of the town people—who can have a cake of soap delivered when they phone. These cars stay put until midnight. We shop and carry our groceries to our cars parked somewhere in the residential area, while the people in the town cars remark about our ability as porters.

"If we motor to the city for pleasure and lay in a store of supplies we can drive in and load up conveniently, but let our town fathers hear of it and next week our local newspaper publishes an item advising us to 'Trade at home. Help boom your own town.'

"Any townspeople who do not believe this should open their eyes the next time farmers come to trade in their town during the evening."

This letter could easily have been written by a Newmarket district farmer or his wife. You take a lot of care to see that farm people get the best possible service, when they enter your store, Mr. Merchant. You even make sure that the sidewalk in front of your store is tidy. Making the street available for parking to the customers who have come the farthest is not so easy, but you could do it with the co-operation of your fellow merchants, working through the board of trade and the town council.

WAR WAS EVER THUS

What a strange thing it is that in this year of Mars the novel, "Oliver Wiswell," by Kenneth Roberts, should be a "best-seller." Every bit as fascinating as "Northwest Passage," with some even better characterization, the book has real merit, but it is intrinsically a sermon on the futility of war. For another reason its popularity is surprising. "Oliver Wiswell" is built on the one side on the alleged stupidity of English military men and governments and on the other on the alleged bigotry, intolerance and depravity of the American rebels. The book sets out to show that the heroes of the American revolution, including Washington, were not what they seemed.

If anyone thinks that the present war is "different" from all previous wars, that person must undertake some historical research and prove that Kenneth Roberts' story is unfounded. Rebels, with the limited inventions at their disposal 150 years ago, were not, according to this story, far behind the Nazis in their treatment of their enemies. In fact, some people would almost prefer to take a chance as a Nazi prisoner. Roberts would have us believe that the rebels frequently shot their prisoners, and inflicted the most unmerciful beatings on others, trying to force them to desert to the rebel cause or to sign themselves into slavery on southern plantations. He tells us that the rebels mistreated and plundered the moderate, tolerant, educated people, imprisoning some in underground mines, driving others into swamps and causing them to die by the hundreds. He tells us that what New England did to the witches was child play compared with what southern rebels did to southern loyalists.

The story is told, of course, by a loyalist. History is what happened in the past according to the viewpoint of the person who tells it. We have a few pages of this 800-page volume still before us, and we expect them to tell of the migration of loyalists to New Brunswick and Ontario and to be particularly interesting.

There is an interesting sketch of John Graves Simcoe, whom we know as the builder of Yonge St. He is spoken of as an able and beloved cavalry leader, never once defeated in many battles with the rebels. There is interesting exaggeration in the statement that: "So ably did he comport himself as governor of Upper Canada that lakes and rivers, mountains and townships will forever bear his name." We have Lake Simcoe, the town of Simcoe, and the county of Simcoe, and the less well known Simcoe Point and Simcoe Island. "But Simcoe, in the land where he fought gallantly at the head of gallant Americans fighting to regain the homes from which they had been unjustly driven, will always be unknown or scorned or reviled because he fought on the wrong side—the side that didn't win."

Simcoe's unit was known as the "Queen's Rangers," had been raised by the Rogers of Northwest Passage, and we presume was the forerunner of the present-day York county unit, Queen's York Rangers, in camp at Niagara this week.

Here is history come to life!

BEVERAGE ROOM PROS AND CONS

There are many people who use alcoholic liquors without any visible harmful results. Some, in fact, think that they have lived to a greater age as a result of its use. And even if it is, as some doctors and scientists say, a poison and therefore more likely to be harmful than helpful to the human system, people have a right to eat or drink harmful things. Many of mankind's ills are due to excesses of one kind or another, and if people have a right to injure their health through lack of rest, lack of proper nourishment, through excessive eating, then surely they also have a right to use alcoholic liquors to their heart's content (or stomach's discontent).

Many people, moreover, make moderate use of alcoholic drinks and must therefore do little injury to themselves.

Why therefore shouldn't Newmarket have several beverage rooms and a liquor store so that people can make their own choice in this matter?

Truth to tell, there are quite a few Newmarket people who take that point of view. There is an even larger group of people, however, polling has shown in the past, who look at the question a little differently.

They point out that the present law does not prohibit the use of alcoholic drinks in Newmarket. People can purchase what they want for home consumption, although they can't rush out and make a spur-of-the-moment purchase.

They point out that while many people use alcohol moderately and occasionally, with seemingly little injury to themselves, there are quite a few people who are not able to be moderate. Alcohol becomes their master, with unfortunate results for themselves, their families and the community. It is in the interests of such people (and they are not few) that alcoholic drinks should not be thrust on the town, but should be only available to those who actively seek them.

They also point out that in this motor-car age alcohol has become more of a community concern than ever. At one time people worried about alcohol largely for the sake of those (and their families) who took too much of it. A secondary concern was that such people did not pay their way in the world, that they left behind them a trail of debts.

Now, however, there is a new angle. The motor-car with the power of 80 or 100 horses, is a dangerous contraption at the best of times. A little mistake in judgment, on the part of motorist or pedestrian, and a child is injured or dead. One car strikes another, and two or three people are killed or injured for life.

Alcohol (even a single drink on an empty stomach) affects the reaction time of a driver, affects his alertness, the number of feet before he can bring his 100 horses to a stop, or the wisdom of his emergency decision. Our provincial department of highways advertises: "If you drink, don't drive; if you drive, don't drink." Unfortunately, some people don't take such advice seriously. Motorists stop at highway beverage rooms, or drive to beverage rooms, and then drive home again. They drive with increased confidence, but lessened ability.

Most Newmarket people feel that there is enough drinking in Newmarket. We know that there is a lot of drinking in Newmarket now, but we are glad to say, most of it is done in the home, and is not followed by car-driving. To open two or three beverage rooms here, and a liquor store (which a vote of approval for beverage rooms would permit), would double or treble or even quadruple the amount of drinking in Newmarket and district, and would sharply increase drink-driving.

THE LITTLE REBEL AND HIS BIG GRANDSON

A few weeks ago we commented that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had said that if he had lived in the time of his grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie, he would have been on his grandfather's side. Since then a reader has asked us in a kindly way what we meant by saying that Mr. King does not say why he is not on his grandfather's side today.

We meant this, that Mr. King is no rebel. Mr. King never rebels against anything, he never kicks over the traces, he never breaks sharply with the past. He does not lead, he follows. That is his political method. He calls it "unity." Mr. King is the opposite of his grandfather. Mr. King is a constitutionalist. One of the first acts of his government, after the defeat of the Bennett administration, was to renege the Bennett reform legislation (including unemployment insurance) to the courts and to have it declared ultra vires.

The fact is that most of us are inclined to identify ourselves with the "little rebel," when if faced with the choice we would probably choose law and order and constitutional government. There were many people in Mackenzie's day who did not approve of the "family compact," but there were few who agreed with Mackenzie that the use of force was the way to improve conditions. Certainly the majority of U. E. L. people could not join in with Mackenzie, for they came to Upper Canada not because they did not disapprove of the way England had governed the American colonies but because they did not approve of the violent cure which the rebels had sought and secured.

William Lyon Mackenzie and William Lyon Mackenzie King, so far as we can see, have little in common. We do not know which is the greater man. The use of force to establish right is always dubious when channels of persuasion are open. The grandson is a wiser man than his grandfather. A combination of the two men would have made a grand leader for this country in days of depression, war and reconstruction. Yes, Prime Minister King, with a little dash of the rebel in him, would be a popular and effective leader in these times.

WHEN EDITORS DISAGREE

(Financial Post)

There is merit in the suggestion of the Brampton Conservator that Mr. King should ask Dr. Gallup to poll Canadian opinion on the question of conscription. It is neither necessary nor desirable that the country endure a general election on this issue and few responsible people indeed have suggested such a course.

(Midland Free Press-Herald)

Brampton Conservator suggests a Gallup poll should be taken in Canada so that Premier King may know how the people actually feel about conscription. Nothing doing. Canada either needs men to win this war or she does not. If she cannot get volunteers in large enough numbers then there is no alternative but conscription, and it does not matter what a Gallup poll would show. Canada must be saved from the Huns. On a purely academic question it would be all right to test public opinion by Dr. Gallup's method, but when it comes to life and death our government must accept responsibility and take what measures are necessary.

THE CUCKOO PLAYS HIDE-AND-SEEK

By RUTH DINGMAN HESS

"As usual, things are rather quiet, now that the heat of mid-summer is in full swing, aren't they?" Woody Woodpecker commented to his friend, Young Chips, the Chickadee.

"There seem to be lots of birds in the woods, where we are, anyway," said the Chickadee.

"Oh, yes, there are lots of birds around, all right, but what I was thinking of is that they don't sing very much," explained Woody.

"Oh, I see what you mean," replied the Chickadee, "and, of course, this is the silent time of year. You still hear the Chickadees calling, though, and the Wood Pewees and Veeries, so things might be worse."

"I've heard that Cuckoo up in the poplar thicket in the middle of the pasture, too," admitted Woody.

"Who hasn't?" answered Young Chips. "Let's go and find out whether he is a Black-billed Cuckoo or a Yellow-billed. I haven't actually seen him once this summer, have you?"

"No, so come on and we'll go and find out," responded Woody, and the two friends set out. "I heard him calling right about here this morning," he said, when they had reached the clump of trees.

"Why, he's calling right now," Young Chips chirped eagerly to his chum. "We can go over to him without any trouble."

"Yes, it was just about here," agreed Woody. "Hello, Cuckoo, where are you? Your voice came from right here a minute ago."

"There's no answer, let's move over this way," suggested Young Chips. "He must have heard us coming and moved away." They reached the new spot and called to the Cuckoo again.

"He's not here either," concluded Woody, when they had hunted for a minute or two. "Where can he have gone? He must be here somewhere."

As he spoke a hoarse "kuk-kuk-kuk" came from the very spot where they had been looking in the first place.

"Well, I'll be hanged," exclaimed the Chickadee in bewilderment. "I could have sworn he wasn't there when we looked before. Let's go back there again and find him. We can't go wrong this time."

They hurried back, keeping a sharp lookout as they went. Arriving at the spot they called again, loudly and impatiently. But again they were met with silence.

"This has ceased to be funny," Woody finally announced severely. "Come out and show yourself—we know you're here."

"All right, Mr. Woodpecker," said a voice in the very poplar tree in which the chums were sitting, and the graceful, long-tailed Cuckoo swooped down beside them. It was quite a large bird, nearly 12 inches long, with white throat, breast and underparts and an olive-brown head, back and tail. It had a full throat and a long, curved bill.

"I was only playing hide-and-peek with you," chuckled the Cuckoo. "It's a game I enjoy very much." He broke into another of his calls, saying "kow-kow-kow," in a loud voice.

"We were curious to know whether you were a Black-billed or a Yellow-billed Cuckoo," said the Woodpecker. "You're so much alike that it's almost impossible to tell, unless we see you up close. You're calls are alike, too."

"Oh, I'm a Black-billed, of course," replied the other bird. "Just look at my black bill. My Yellow-billed cousins have touches of cinnamon brown on their wings and more white on their tails than we have. Otherwise we are much alike, I'll admit. That was a good trick of mine, fooling you like that. I was in the same place all the time, but well hidden."

"Have your family grown up yet?" inquired Woody. "I've always wanted to see a really young Cuckoo. I've heard they are covered with funny stiff pinfeathers and are a scream to look at."

"The very ideal!" snapped the Cuckoo haughtily. "They're covered with a sort of pinfeather, but they're fine, upstanding children. They're grown up, or almost, now though and have ordinary feathers."

"Did you lay any of your eggs in other birds' nests this year—your Cuckoo has a great reputation for that you know," asked Young Chips boldly.

"Indeed not!" answered the Cuckoo coldly. "It's not common with us, although the European Cuckoos do it. I will admit that one of my Yellow-billed cousins laid two eggs in a Catbird's nest last year—but it's not done by us very much."

"I'm glad to hear it, it's a disgusting trick," stated Woody firmly.

"You haven't seen any nice, hairy caterpillars anywhere near here, have you?" asked the Cuckoo. "My bill's just watering for one."

"No, but you'd be welcome to it if I had," replied the Chickadee. "You wouldn't catch me lining my stomach with caterpillar bristles like you Cuckoos do."

"I don't mind having a furlined stomach a bit," the Cuckoo replied. "I guess I'll go over to the next thicket down the way and see what's there. Good-bye."

"He's an odd fellow but likeable," concluded the Chickadee, as he and Woody went back toward the woods.

SEEING STARS

By GOLDEN GLOW

Some no doubt "saw stars" last Saturday evening at the world-famous Dunlap observatory just south of Richmond Hill on Yonge St., but I saw only the moon through the smaller telescope placed on the lawn, for people were lined up by the hundreds waiting for their turn for a look through the larger one and we were so very far down the line that it would have been Sunday morning before our turn at the huge telescope would come.

You see, we were returning from a visit to the summer home of a cousin on Six-Mile Island in Lake Scugog, and didn't feel like standing in line so long, even for such a wonderful experience as that would have been! Ever since the observatory was completed, I have always wanted to have the privilege of looking at the moon and stars through that famous 74-inch telescope, largest, I believe, in the British empire.

As I stated a week or so ago, August is the month for stars; they are out in millions every clear night, and if you can spare the time you are sure to see plenty of "falling stars," also this month, "the shower of meteors," we call it, and low in the western sky, early in the evening, you may see, quite plainly, the planet Venus, just after sunset.

Saturday evening was an ideal night for "seeing stars"—clear and still and warm. The road up to the observatory was a steady procession of cars up and down, and more than one had to be hauled back on to the road by a tow-truck. But it was a good-natured crowd notwithstanding. I think many had taken advantage of the location of the park nearly opposite to have a picnic, and wait till dark, or till 9 o'clock, when the Dunlap observatory was thrown open. Now that is a splendid little park for a picnic, especially if there are children, for a children's zoo is there to make it interesting, with an assortment of birds, foxes and monkeys.

I neglected to say at the start that this free show was in aid of the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund, and Red Cross girls were on hand to receive donations. Astronomers from the staff were there to answer questions as well. On your right as you stepped out of your car, and walked the last bit of the way, was a splendid building, in the corridor of which were the most wonderful photographs on the walls, photographs of meteors, eclipses and marvels of the heavens. I kept repeating to myself, "The heavens are telling," quite unconsciously—you know how a line like that keeps repeating itself inside your head! But, oh, how true!

Then the larger building on top of the hill, where is situated that marvellous telescope. I can tell about the wonderful buildings even if I did not see through the telescope. It all must have cost a mint of money, for the building is magnificent in its way. As you go into the building, at the right-hand side, there on the floor, in mosaic, is the zodiac, or should I say the 12 constellations, or what we call the signs of the zodiac. Of course, there is no such thing as a zodiac. It is an imaginary vision of the heavens, but it has been in use from earliest days by astronomers. It is a sort of luminous broad belt in the heavens containing the 12 constellations around which the sun makes a circle once a year. I love the starry sky, and would like to really know the heavens, but it takes so much time!

However, to get back to last Saturday night! If I did not see the stars through the huge telescope I saw the moon through the smaller one on the lawn. A lady astronomer was explaining it to us. I can assure you that there was neither a pretty lady nor the proverbial "man-in-the-moon" to be seen as I gazed at it. No, in spite of the old songs about it, he wasn't there——as I saw was dark blotches, some more prominent than others. She called them craters, and it really looked like a map of the South American continent more than anything else, done in dark color. But it brought that old moon so close you felt as if you could reach round the telescope and take it in your hand.

So what must it have been to see the stars through the larger one? The lovely stars of the summer sky, Antares, Vega, Altair, names that have come down to us from ancient mythology—stars that you see mentioned in the Old Testament scripture, Orion and the Pleiades, that cluster of seven stars in the constellation Taurus, the Bull, the seven stars that twinkle in and out and make it so difficult to count them—the seven daughters of Atlas who were changed after death to stars.

Well! I'd better end this rambling account of my Saturday night's adventure. But do watch the sky this month of August—it is well worth-while. Star-gazing can become most fascinating!

TO THE EDITOR

"VERY MUCH ALIVE"

Editor, The Era: In your edition of the 24th inst. which my wife receives weekly, you mention her stepfather, John S. Downes, in connection with the bowling club, as being dead. The old gentleman, I may say, is alive very much and now resident at Leamington in Warwickshire, and only last week my wife had a letter from him.

Newmarket and all that is connected with the place always interest me, as I happened to be stationed there in the old Ontario bank, and was associated with J. E. Bouch and later with dear old "C. G." Ross. My wife is a granddaughter of one of the original doctors (the late Dr. John Bentley).

Your paper is just about as interesting to me as to my small wife, as my recollections of the dear little town are fairly fresh, in my mind, and the three years I spent there will always be one of the bright spots in my memories. Your own editorials since you took over I enjoy most thoroughly.

Mr. Downes, I should almost think, would live to be 100 or even more.

Sincerely yours, Harry Heap.

POLICE COURT Beaverton Woman Loses Arm In Auto Crash

Pleading guilty to having three 25-ounce bottles and one smaller bottle of gin and nine quarts of whiskey in his car, H. E. Beatty, Toronto, was fined $50 and costs or one month in jail by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

"On July 17 at 1:15 p.m., acting on information received, I stopped a car one quarter of a mile east of Pefferlaw," testified Constable William Hill, Sutton. "The car was driven by H. E. Beatty. I asked the accused if he had any liquor in his car and he said, 'Officer, there must be some mistake.' He showed me a bag with eggs. On searching the trunk of the car I found four bottles of gin and nine 4-ounce bottles of whiskey."

"Did the accused say anything to you?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"The accused said that he was going to Port Bolster on a fishing trip," replied the officer.

"Did he say to whom the liquor belonged?"

"At first he said it did not belong to him but to a man named Scott. Later he admitted it was his."

Asked by the defence if the bottles were opened, the officer said that they were not. He further stated that Mr. Beatty produced two permits.

In his defence the defendant pleaded that he had intended leaving the liquor at a friend's before going to fish. He said that they were going to have a party and that it was not unusual to have such a large quantity of liquor.

Besides the fine imposed Magistrate Woodliffe ordered the liquor confiscated.

A charge of dangerous driving against George S. Nunns, Beaverton, was dismissed. The accident, which took place on the Beaverton-Sutton county road, about one and a half miles west of Sutton, on the evening of May 16, resulted in the defendant's wife losing her arm.

According to the evidence of Frank Doyle, a waiter at the Sutton hotel, Mr. Nunns, his wife and another woman had been in the women's beverage room between 5 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. the night of the accident. Each had had a glass of beer and had left the hotel "absolutely sober."

Allan O'Neill, waiter in the Kenwood hotel at Jackson's Point, testified that the defendant, his wife and another woman left his place at between 11 and 11:30 p.m. the same night, after having a glass of beer each. He said that they left the hotel "perfectly sober."

"The accident happened west of my place," testified Cecil Smith, Virginia. "I was coming from Sharon at the time and was the first on the scene." He said that he did not see the actual crash.

"What time was that?" asked the crown.

"I could not say what time it was, it was about midnight," replied the witness.

"There was a lady waving her hands," continued Mr. Smith. "She wanted us to stop and get a doctor. I stayed at the accident, while Mr. Corner went to phone for help."

"When did you see at the scene?" the crown asked.

"A lady (Mrs. Nunns) was lying with her arm off. I went over and scratched a match. She wasn't bleeding. I saw that there was nothing I could do. It was best to let her lie until the doctor came."

Asked if he saw anyone else at the scene, the witness replied: "Yes, someone was in the field nearby. Mrs. Roach called 'Is that you George?' He replied, 'Yes, I am going to get a doctor.' He walked along the fence line."

"Did you make any observation of the scene of the accident?"

"Yes, the car seemed to me to have come from the west. Marks off the pavement led into the culvert."

In answer to further questions of the crown, the witness stated that the night was quite dark and the pavement dry. The side had been ripped off the car.

Asked about the condition of the road, Mr. Smith said that he thought the road in fair condition for the time of the year.

"This man was acting as a Good Samaritan for three hours," Magistrate Woodliffe told the defence, who commented on the witness in a bill to answer questions as to time. "I think he is to be commended, not criticized."

According to the evidence of Frank Doyle, Virginia, the culvert into which the Nunns car had crashed was 200 feet from his home. The night in question he was awakened by the barking of his dog and on opening his front door was met by Mr. Corner, who had come to telephone for a doctor. He said that when he arrived at the scene, the Nunns car was facing north on the north side of the road. It was badly damaged and the culvert broken. He said that he helped Constable Hill measure the marks on the grassy shoulder and would say that they were about 107 or 103 feet long.

James Wilson, Pefferlaw, road superintendent of the Toronto and York Roads Commission, testified that the road had been in perfect condition. "There was a hole about 840 feet west of the culvert," he stated. "The only other hole nearer to the place of impact had been patched up before the accident."

He stated that the culvert was 30 feet wide and that there were approximately six inches of a shoulder on each side of the pavement.

"I arrived at the scene about 2:15 a.m.," testified Constable William Hill. "I took photographs the following day. I couldn't see by the marks that the brakes had been put on."

The officer admitted that the roads had heaved up considerably in the spring but said that they had been fixed before the accident occurred.

Provincial Constable George Yule, stationed at Beaverton, who assisted Con. Hill in the investigation, stated that he had held the end of the tape while Con. Hill measured the skid marks. He corroborated the previous witness statement as to the condition of the road, saying that there was no hole on the road within 200 feet.

"Mr. Nunns was perfectly sober," testified Leslie Corner, Georgina farmer, who was in Mr. Smith's car when it arrived at the scene of the accident. "I did not detect any odor of liquor on him."

Mr. Corner stated that he examined the road after the accident and found that the wheel marks did not run in line, but were from seven to eight inches out. He said that the road was quite rough and not fit to drive on at 40 miles an hour.

William Griffin, Sutton, also testified that the wheels were out of line. He said that when he arrived at the accident he did not smell any alcohol on the defendant.

"I was there later, after the accident," testified John Winters, garage owner, Toronto, a summer resident in Georgia. "I found that the car had for some reason swerved off the road. The rear axle had been driven off the spring clips and the car had no other way to go but sideways. It would be impossible to control the car in that condition."

The witness gave as his reason for believing that the axle had been driven off the spring clips, that he had come across a piece of spring a short distance up the road and had kicked it out of his way. He said that a severe bump would cause the clips to come off. This would cause the rear wheel of the car to be out of line at about an angle of 50 degrees. He said that though this rarely happened it was known to have happened when a wheel hit a hard object, such as a block.

Questioned as to the injuries received by the passengers in the Nunns car, Dr. O. M. Beattie, Sutton, who was called to the scene, stated: "Mrs. Nunns was seriously injured and Mr. Nunns and Mrs. Roach were slightly injured. Mrs. Nunns' left arm was severed below the elbow. She had severe lacerations on her head and eyes and suffered from terrific shock. In fact, I thought she was dead myself. I gave her a hypodermic and sent her to a Toronto hospital." The doctor stated that he found no evidence of intoxication on the defendant.

In his defence Mr. Nunns stated that he is a manager of the Dominion Bank at Beaverton.

"On the 16th of May, my wife, Mrs. Roach and myself went for a drive," he stated. "At Sutton we needed cigarettes. So we went into the hotel and I got the ladies a glass of beer. From there we drove to the neighborhood of Hollywood Inn, where we turned around and came back. When we came back to Jackson's Point we went into Glover's hotel and had a glass of beer. Mrs. Glover, who is a friend of my wife, was ill and my wife wanted to see how she was."

Mr. Nunns further stated that the two women were in the rear of the car when they started on their homeward journey.

"The first intimation of trouble was a blow-out in the back tire," the defendant continued. "I could not control the car. It veered off to the left. I applied my brakes but they wouldn't work. I couldn't bring the car back on the road. I hit the culvert."

Mr. Nunns stated that he went to look for help and started across the field in the direction of the dog's bark.

Cross-examined by the crown, the defendant said that he had been driving less than 45 miles an hour. "I didn't see the hole, but knew that I hit some obstruction, as it jarred my car out of control."

"In this case there is some evidence that the accused had been drinking," stated the magistrate. "However, there is no evidence that it had anything to do with the accident, so I am ignoring that evidence."

"Mr. Nunns said that while driving along, the road his car struck a severe bump on the road, the tire blowing out. His brakes wouldn't work, he lost control of his car and crashed into the culvert guard. An expert mechanic called, has given evidence that such a blow may very well cause a mechanical breakdown in the car, throwing the car to the left and causing such an accident."

"The crown has produced evidence that no such bump is within 840 feet of the accident but all the witnesses, except the superintendent of roads, agree that the road was quite bumpy and not in good condition. Hence I feel that I must allow Mr. Nunns the benefit of the doubt and dismiss the charge. However, there are costs incurred in this case and Mr. Nunns must see to them."

Seventy-two of the 85 cases presented before Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in police court on Tuesday were speed violations.

Constable Fisher Dumbart, who checked motorists driving through Aurora, secured 13 convictions. They included Ruth Bowman, Toronto, fined $10 and costs for going 59 miles an hour, and Allan Combs, Leaside, fined $8 and costs for going 45 miles an hour. Model Knitting Mills, Markham, Miller, Elsie Gaudin, G. Highland Dairy, Beulah, Tay Co., Douglas, Dean, Earl Miller, John Stewart, Acme Paper Box Co., John J. Gellans and Smith Transport, all of Toronto, were each fined $8 and costs for travelling at 45 miles an hour.

Seven of the 13 motorists checked by Constable Kenneth Mount in Newmarket were fined $8 and costs for going 45 miles an hour. They were Thomas Leonard, Oak Ridge, Gordon Graydon, Brampton, and Bruce MacDonald, Mrs. Helen Rogers, Milne and Nichols, M. Starkman and Herman Kalb, all of Toronto. Sam Davis, L. E. Saper and D. Startup, all of Toronto, were each fined $6 and costs (42 miles an hour). J. Davis, Lake of the Woods Milling Co., and Sylvie Vander Hunt, all of Toronto, were each fined $5 and costs for 40 miles an hour.

County Constable William Hill, Sutton testified that two Toronto motorists were travelling at 45 miles an hour in North Gwillimbury. They were E. A. Ryward and C. H. Shakespeare and were fined $8 and costs.

The following motorists were checked in North Gwillimbury by County Constable Alex. McCullum: Dr. H. Heffering, Harvey Bongard, Russell Construction Co., all of Toronto and each fined $10 and costs (50 miles an hour). Mary Nicol, Homer Walker, Sam Delveiz, John Young and Wilfred Howe, all of Toronto and each fined $8 and costs (45 miles an hour) and Charles Hay Jones Armstrong, both of Toronto, Brother Anthony, Scarborough Junction, Bob Law, Forest Hill Village, each fined $5 and costs (over 40 miles an hour).

James Armstrong, who pleaded not guilty to travelling 50 miles an hour north of Elmhurst Beach, told his worship that he did not believe that he was travelling at that speed, as he was going to Indianola Beach and was looking out for the place. He stated that he would not likely be going so fast in such a short distance.

"The officer might be a little out in his calculations but he couldn't be that much out—the difference between 30 and 50 miles an hour," commented the magistrate.

"I don't believe I was going at that speed," stated the defendant.

"There may be some discrepancy but not a difference of 20 miles an hour," replied his worship.

"You're only guessing. The officer is working from actual figures. He has a stop-watch."

Magistrate Woodliffe fined E. F. Jackson, Toronto, $10 and costs for having wrong license plates on his car.

Charges of speeding through Aurora, against Jack Wilson and James Lennon, both of Toronto, were dismissed. The defendants in each case pleaded not guilty on the ground that their cars had not been in Aurora at the time specified on the warrants.

Cases adjourned were: Joseph Myers, Newmarket, charged with careless driving and illegal possession of liquor; Albert B. Cox, Newmarket military camp, serious offence (bail reduced to $2,000 in view of the fact that he had spent two weeks in jail already); Francis C. Lawson, Camp Borden, charged with the theft of an auto and dangerous driving (bail of $1,000 allowed); John Cryderman and McLeod Chapman, Baldwin, each charged with stealing a helper, the property of Frank Broadway, and of stealing four head of cattle from Donald McDonald ($500 bail each) and Murray Stein, Toronto, charged with careless driving.

The Ful-O-Pep Plan Helps Poultrymen Save up to 30% to 50% on COST OF FEEDING NEW PULLETS

Some have asked why a commercial feed manufacturer advocates a plan of restricted feeding. The answer is simple. By advocating this basic principle in the Ful-O-Pep Rearing Plan, substantial economies are possible to alert poultrymen, and at the same time he can raise a stronger, healthier bird than by limited feeding.

With Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter and Growing Mash—so exceptionally rich in nutritive value—as a foundation of the Ful-O-Pep plan, poultrymen may complete the growing ration with whole oats and scratch grains, thus saving considerable money.

We believe this to be an important contribution to the practical poultryman's method of operation.

And That Was All

The tenant was making a strenuous protest to her landlord.

"It's that family in the apartment above me," she stormed. "They are always disturbing me. Why this morning about 1:30 they were jumping up and down on the floor as hard as they could. I don't have to put up with it."

The landlord appeared sympathetic. "I presume the disturbance woke you up?" he inquired. "Oh, no, I hadn't gone to bed. I was just rehearsing a number that I'm singing for the women's club tomorrow."

More than 300 children have been sent to the country by the Neighborhood Workers Association as a result of the ready response by country-dwellers to an appeal for vacation spots for needy city children, according to Miss M. Collier, director of the Neighborhood Workers Association country homes department.

Hostesses who have taken children in previous years have been generous in their response.

According to Miss Collier, girls are again the favorites. "Each year we have a large number of boys patiently waiting for their turn, but the majority of invitations are for girls. It's hard to explain this, for boys have proven to be less trouble to entertain, and have never shown a higher 'mischievous record' than the girls. Many boys are so grateful for being in the country where they can see real horses, cows, and other farm animals that they make particular efforts to be as little trouble as possible so they may be allowed to stay a long time," Miss Collier points out.

"At present there are 775 children on the waiting-list and invitations to boys between the ages of seven and 13 are urgently needed. The children are sent, transportation paid, to any area within 150 miles of Toronto. They are medically examined before leaving town and all arrangements are made for the trip by the Neighborhood Workers Association. Hostesses are asked to provide free accommodation and plenty of good wholesome food. Many of the children show immediate increases in weight as they get (some of them for the first time in their lives) enough fresh vegetables, eggs and milk.

"If you have room in your home for one or two youngsters for a couple of weeks, write immediately to the Country Homes Department, Neighborhood Workers Association, 22 Wellesley St., Toronto, enclosing a note from your local clergyman. Be sure to state clearly whether you prefer girls or boys, the ages you desire, and when and where the children will be met."

He had managed to get a job as collector for a gas company.

"Take this master key and go round and empty all the coin boxes; get all the pennies and shillings," said the manager.

He was gone for three weeks. Then he walked into the office and announced: "Can I have another key? I've lost t'other one."

"Certainly," replied the manager. "But where have you been all this time? The cashier has stopped late every Friday night expecting you to come for your wages."

"What," exclaimed the man, "do I get wages as well?"

A denizen of the hills of East Tennessee, who was appearing as a witness in a law suit, was being questioned as to his educational qualifications by the plaintiff's lawyer.

"How is that?"

"Wal, take these here signs along the road when I want to go somers; I kin read how fur, but not whurto."

LAYING IT ON

DOWN THE CENTRE

All-star special for the York-Simcoe softball loop has finally rolled around again and it seems but yesterday that we were busy sweating the old brow as we pounded out our first selection of stars. The teams, as you know, are busily engaged in the play-offs and from the windswept plains of Niagara camp we hesitate to name the winner. Perhaps by the time of publication the decks will be cleared for the final play-offs, with some of the favorites out of the contention and numbered among the limbo of things that might have been.

The selections are of our own choosing. Once we fancied we would get together a board of selectors but found that hard to do. Then we decided to stick out our chin by making our choices. We don't expect you'll agree with us in all cases, but some positions could be made with your eyes shut and you couldn't go wrong.

This year the league at one stage looked to be passing out of existence with the withdrawal of the dynamic Newmarket Redmen, hard-trying Midhurst Foresters and the flashy Camp Borden fliers. The withdrawal of the Redmen was a loss to the whole circuit but a distinct gain to Aurora, which made them dangerous every game. Midhurst's retirement strengthened Barrie Collegians in spots where they were a bit weak last year. The loss of the Fliers was an advantage for the league, as they were a distinct uncertainty last year and gates were lost by all teams.

Newmarket training camp were a real gain to the circuit. They were handicapped by a changing personnel but kept most of their engagements and fought hard at all times.

George Goring succeeded Joe Spillet as president and Ross Smith took Frank Courtney's place. Frankly, the change, to the teams in this end of the league, was no improvement or to the league as a whole. Executive meetings were continually bailed up and the fact that both men lived in Barrie meant a concentration of authority at one end of the loop. While it may be an ideal arrangement, having both president and secretary in the same town, the fact is that it hasn't worked out very well. Goring a few years ago was a most efficient secretary, Smith is new to the game. We all make mistakes but if the league is to survive, a definite system of inter-changing views and keeping the teams informed of what is happening must be arranged.

The war took a heavy toll on the league but we know you fans are mighty proud of the way softballers have rallied to the flag. Aurora sent Wilf and Ray White, Bill Mugford, Ace Yake, Harry Pearce, Grant Cook to the army. Michanuk moved away. Richmond Hill lost Norm. Mabley and Ron O'Dell to the air force while George Stong, Findlay and others moved elsewhere. Pub Urey of Barrie joined the Simcoe Foresters and probably others too.

Injuries saw Earl Marshall on the shelf, and probably from softball for good, while Art Crean of the Hill broke his ankle.

Hitting is once again to the fore when we make choices and this year some of the so-called weak hitters turned out to be pretty hefty at bat. There was really little to choose between the batting ability of all four teams. Some were able to get them in clusters. Others, if they had done so, would have been in other spots in the standing.

Barrie Collegians, who are favorites for top honors, set what we believe to be a league record, with nine straight wins and completely "skunking" Richmond Hill and Aurora. Like Joe DiMaggio they were stopped when least expected but whether or not they can go on another spree like the Yankee slugger is doing at the present remains to be seen.

The changing line-ups made it difficult in a few cases to make a decision. The Camp by actual count used over 30 different players and may be using more now. Aurora used no less than 22 players to try for a winning combination. Richmond Hill had 20, while, as you would expect, Ivan Gracey did not break a winning Barrie combination very much. Many of our favorites played only a few games, although they'll see action in the play-offs.

For the first time then we considered regularity and the whole season's performance as the best test for awarding any mythical trophies. We saw fewer games than last year and most of them we witnessed as a spectator. As was to be expected some players were slower than last season, some got a new lease on playing life and youngsters blossomed into top-ranking performers. It's pretty much the same every season. The teams on the whole, we believe, are better balanced than in previous years. No team can afford to take another lightly.

The catchers around the league saw an almost complete change, with only the two top-rankers of last year, Harold Echlin of Richmond Hill and Charlie VanZant, performing again. Echlin is much slower than last year and caught so few games he can hardly be considered here. Ted Annett, a Toronto boy, took his place and did well but he is no Echlin at his best and a light hitter. The Camp used several, of whom Mackie was probably the best. Barrie introduced Tommy Rock, a soldier laddie from Camp Borden, who has done a fine job. He was an improvement on Urey and handled Couse well, at times, hit hard and was on his toes.

Charlie VanZant and Charlie Case handled the Aurora pitchers. Case did a nice effort but was weak with the stick. VanZant, with his fighting heart, has made Aurora real contenders and improved all the pitchers. He is the best catcher ever to play here. He hit .360, his throwing arm is tops in the circuit and being taller than Rock he can snare wild pitches and passed balls better. Rock has a little more speed afoot but that's the only place he excels Charlie.

Charlie VanZant is our first choice, with Tom Rock second. Last year VanZant was second to Echlin.

Harry Couse gets first call among the pitchers. No one can deny the 22-year-old Cookstown boy that honor. He has pitched in all the Barrie games and has been both steady and heady. He won 12 straight games before being stopped and averaged about ten strike-outs a game. Most of his efforts were four and five hitters, which to our way of thinking is real pitching.

The second team is our consideration. Teddy Bennett pitched most of the games for the Hill and when he didn't was in the outfield. His pitching was not quite as effective as last year but still plenty good. Bob Miller from Claremont pitched well on the few occasions he was used. The elongated tosser will be heard from in the play-offs. Gracey and Schandelin relieved Couse a bit but can't be considered seriously. The Camp had Wes Niles, the former Redman ace, as their top performer. Niles won all his starts but was used chiefly as a relief hurler and he never failed to squelch a rally.

Stuckey, Ash, Lewis, Simpson and others, all with varying reputations from other years, also pitched. Stuckey and Clapp were real performers but left the Camp too early to be considered. Aurora used Shore, McComb, Cook, Glover, Webster, Bone, Hillis, the largest assortment in years. None pitched very many games, as you can guess. Cook is one of the finds of the season, while McComb is fast becoming a grade A performer. Webster needs no comment.

Teddy Bennett gets second place on the firsts, an interchange of places with Couse from last year, while for our second team Wes Niles and Morley Cook share honors.

First base, like last year, was the weak spot for stand-out players. The Hill used Echlin, Steve Young and Dykes. Barrie kept Morris Hines there all year and he is greatly improved over last year. His fielding has been excellent and his batting steady. The Camp used an assortment, none of whom stood out. Bob Peters of the locals shared duties with Lyall Sparks, Charlie Case and others. We recognize Hines' performance over the whole season. So Morris Hines is on the first team, Bob Peters on the second.

The keystone sack saw a bunch of good performers. Gantner of the Military Camp is a hard hitter and classy fielder. Tim Saul is steady as ever and covering lots of ground. John O'Mahoney of Aurora shows promise but is not a double-play man, and his hitting, while improving, does not entitle him to ranking. Miles of Barrie has been steady all season. Tim Saul, in our opinion, deserves first place, with Bern. Gantner of the Camp second.

Third base lacks Frank Michanuk this year but the performances have been good. Anglo Viscontia was best of the soldiers, Charlie Milne plugged the Aurora infield late in the season. Cummings, Echlin and Brown all played the hot corner for the Hill, but Brown, one of our better ball-players, again played too few games. Steve Hines and Roly Lee worked for Barrie.

The first team will find a brother act as we name Steve Hines first and Charlie Milne second. Both are hard hitters. Shortstop has a strong four-some with not a weak one in sight. George Hodgins, youthful Aurora infielder, is the most improved player in the league and fielding like PeeWee Hill-ton. Murphy of Barrie and Cochrane of Richmond Hill have both been good. Our first choice is Jack Menzies of the camp, a long-geared, speedy fielder who is a power-house hitter. George Hodgins gets the nod for next best. Menzies played with Ki-Y in Toronto in other years.

The outfield again finds a crop of sterling performers, with Barrie having the best all-round trio and one big reason for Couse's string of wins. Harold Laking of Barrie, the bespectacled red-head, is our first choice. He has shown consistency and all-round ability over two years, with never a poor performance. Fred Norris, his centrefield mate, runs him a close second in everything and this year may even have an edge in hitting. If Bennett had not been listed as a pitcher we would play him here but he's spent most of the season in the box.

Wes. Heaney, the Aurora veteran, gets the third spot. He has made some sensational catches, is hitting .301, and, playing with a band of players like we've named, he'd rise to the occasion and not be outclassed by any. Jim Crean, Charlie Miles, John McComb, John Mabley, John Buchanan and others have played well. The Camp outfield has varied so much we can't compare them fairly. Tommy Bunker, their diminutive outfielder, made some of the fanciest catches we ever saw but played only a few games.

Our second outfield has Jim Crean, Charlie Miles, and Bill Buchanan, with Crean in centre-field.

Utility award goes to Harold Echlin, who has played no less than five different positions well this season. He is still a dangerous hitter too. Joint McComb gets the other place, for he can pitch, play the outfield or infield and is batting .354. Bunker, Viscontia and Charlie Miles were others we considered.

Lorne Ramsay easily won top honors around the league as the best arbiter. He knew the rules thoroughly and was fearless in his decisions. The managers are so equal in ability we hesitate to name any, suffice it to say that with teams like we've named it would be no cinch. We give you the all-stars.

SIGN THE PLEDGE TO

Let Your Car Wear Proudly This Patriotic Sticker!

Go to your friendly neighbourhood service station or your local garage man today. A surprise awaits you. He has changed. He will be as courteous and thoughtful as ever—glad to see you—eager to do anything and everything he can to help you. But he is no longer a gasoline salesman. He is a gasoline SAVER. He will urge you to buy less instead of more. He will point out ways and means of saving gasoline.

He will tell you all about the "50/50" Pledge to cut your gas consumption by fifty per cent. He will invite you to sign. This proud and patriotic sticker for your car will mark you as a member of the wise and thoughtful band of car owners co-operating with the Government to save gasoline.

This is entirely a voluntary movement. It is not rationing. This the Government hopes to avert. But we are faced with a critical shortage of gasoline due to the diversion of tankers for overseas service and to the growing needs of our Fighting Forces.

There is no call for panic—no need for alarm—but this war is being fought with gasoline and we are fighting for our very lives. Sign the Pledge today and continue to save fifty per cent of your gasoline consumption.

It is also vitally important that you reduce the use of domestic and commercial fuel oil.

REMEMBER: The slower you drive, the more you save!

The Common Round

RENDEZVOUS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

There have been and are many kinds of rendezvous in the world, from the vacant lot where city children meet to fight their mimic wars and play their games oblivious to the clamor and bustle that flows all around them to the beautiful parks in the same city where the children of the well-to-do congregate to play the same games, fight over the same things and forge the friendships and hatreds that often companion them through the years.

And maybe in the same city gunmen may have a rendezvous where they plot their crimes—their murders, their vice rings, their methods of sabotage, while not far away another group meet—a group of men and women whose lives are dedicated to the service of the needy and the stricken and who carry the banner of the cross into regions where those not rendered fearless by the armor of faith, dare not venture.

The Brenner pass is a rendezvous made famous—perhaps infamous would be the better word
—by these arch enemies of mankind—Hitler and Mussolini and the mountain eyre where Darlan sold France to Hitler will rank next to the garden of Gethsemane where Judas sold Christ to Caiaphas.

Wasn't it Elijah and the priests of Baal who met to prove which of their gods was the greater? That was a rendezvous where the forces of good and evil met, and where evil went down in flaming defeat.

Today we feel that the forces of evil are arrayed just as definitely over against each other, and though fire may not descend from heaven to show the forces of evil that God still fights for the right, yet the righteous fire that inflames the souls of men who fight against the powers of darkness is just as real a force for it takes its rise from the same source.

But all this preamble about rendezvous is JUST a preamble, for it's of a different meeting place from any of these that I started out to write. Last Saturday evening we went for a drive, and as we drove along the lake shore, taking great gulps of the fresh sweet air, and watching the sun set in a blaze of glory, my better half said, apropos, of nothing, "If I am going fishing
I need a broad brimmed hat and I've decided a country store is the place to buy it." It was hard to leave the glory of lake and sky and consider a mere commonplace headgear, but with an effort I focussed my weighty intellect—my head had been heavy all day—on the subject and informed friend husband objected the man of the family,

"country stores cater to country trade."

"Maybe in some things—yes, of course, in most things—but NOT in hats," I reiterated.

"Don't argue—do something," advised mother, and so we left the twilight loveliness of the lake and the scent of the hot spruce and cedar, and drove off on "the quest of the hat."

"Where are those lights?" I wanted to know, as a brilliantly lit street came into view.

"That's Sutton," said my spouse, "and even if it's not a country place, I'll try my luck."

"It looks like the midway," he went on, as a vision of hot-dog stands, shops, dance halls, etc., burst on our astonished view.
But off he went, only to come back sans hat and plus a disgusted expression.

"Well?" I questioned. "no hat?"

"You'd love to see me in some of those floppy colored things," said he, as he started the car somewhat viciously, which is contrary to his usual procedure and against the new gas conservation rules.

"Where now?" I ventured to inquire.

"Belhaven," said he, and we drove along through the scented summer stillness, rejoicing in the cool darkness after the terrific heat of the day.

"Here we are," said he as we drew up at a brightly lighted little shop, where a car or two were parked.

"NOW you'll see," said my spouse, and disappeared from view, only to come out in a few minutes, looking crestfallen and announcing "no luck."

I nearly bit my tongue off in the effort to keep from saying,
"I told you so," and felt quite virtuous at my success.

"Are you going to give up?"
inquired mother, not as if she expected he would, for Scotch stick-to-it-iveness abides in both.

"We're going to Ravenshoe," was the answer, so to Ravenshoe we went, and here we came upon a real rendezvous. On the steps and verandah of the store was a gathering of men, and while Archie investigated hats, I couldn't help hearing some of the conversation, and hearing it, I recalled Woodrow Wilson's dictionary, the exact words of which I forget, but which said in effect "that all national issues were made or marred in the country store." Politics, crops, the war and local affairs were discussed in the little while I sat there, and one could imagine at election time how candidates were discussed and resolutions taken after one of these conferences.

"The storekeeper says he never had such a demand for straw hats," announced the man of the house, as he returned hatless, but unbeaten. "I'm going to Sharon," he went on, "and then to Vondorf."

"What time is it?" asked the back seat.

"About eleven," said the front,
as we slid into Sharon.

"Not one hat of that kind,"
said the store man and to Vandorf we took our way. Here, too, was a gathering of the men of the neighborhood. And I thought, it's from the store, multiplied a million times, that our policies, our laws and our reforms are influenced. These talks, like

VIVIAN ORDINATION SERVICES HELD FOR E. A. McASH

The Vivian Young People had charge of the Y.P. meeting in Long Branch Baptist church on Monday evening of last week.

Frank Allen was chosen to bring the message and spoke from Hebrews 11: 10. The scripture lesson was read by George Smalley.

Duets were sung by Misses Irene Boden and Christine Mulholland, and David Fox and Garfield Brown. There was also a trio composed of Lloyd Grose and Misses Boden and Mulholland.

The president, Earl Grose, presided.

At the close of the service refreshments were served by the Long Branch young people, and they were much enjoyed by the Vivianites.

There was no Young People's meeting held on Wednesday night, owing to the ordination service of Rev. Arthur McAsh at Maple Hill.

Mr. Smith also played several violin solos during the service, after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

Miss Irene Boden was working at the General Hospital over the weekend. Eugene Paisley of the R.C.A.F., Camp Borden, was home over the weekend.

FORMER REEVE OF HOLLAND LANDING DIES

The death occurred on Tuesday morning of Wm. Cuthbert Lane of Toronto, a former resident of Holland Landing, after an illness of three months.

Born in Holland Landing on April 8, 1870, the son of William and Elizabeth Lane, he married Emma Morning of Holland Landing, who predeceased him 19 years ago. Mr. Lane had resided in Holland Landing, where he farmed, all his life with the exception of the last few years, when he went to Toronto to live with his daughter, Mrs. C. Cameron.

Two daughters, Mrs. C. Cameron and Miss Dorothy Lane, both of Toronto, survive.

The funeral service was held at the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose this afternoon. Rev. A. J. Patstone conducted the service. Interment was made in Newmarket cemetery.

COUNCIL APPROVES

into the mains, one for 250 gallons per minute and the other for 500 gallons per minute, the pumps to be automatically controlled to the extent of cut-outs by low water level in the reservoir and high water level in the elevated tank.

To enable the council to decide between the Water St. and Cotter St. sites Mr. Babcock made the following points:

(1) Same equipment required irrespective of site.

(2) Circular reservoir at Water St. has "no value because of its low capacity, depth, construction and state of repair."

(3) Rectangular concrete reservoir at Water St., with capacity of 90,000 gallons, is difficult to drain and clean and "does not tend to produce good operation."

(4) If Water St. site used, part of main between new well and reservoir will require reconstruction.

(5) Waterworks buildings at Water St. and the existing concrete reservoir are not adaptable for developing an efficient plan.

(6) Site on Cotter St. provides an unusual opportunity for a plan whereby the pump suction would be under pressure from the reservoir and the reservoir would be drained by gravity and thus easily cleaned.

(7) If Cotter St. site used, water would enter mains on Prospect St. comparatively near elevated tank, resulting in a minimum reversal of flow in the mains, and minimum stirring of sediment.

(8) A pump-house sufficient for the deep-well pump must be provided at Cotter St. in any case.

Mr. Babcock presented blueprints of a construction plan which included an 180,000 gallon reservoir.

"Is it established that the old reservoirs are faulty?" asked Councillor Arleigh Armstrong. "Why couldn't they be drained into the stream?"

"They could be," said Mr. Evans. "The saving would be $6,000 to use the old reservoir."

"The old circular reservoir has to be scrapped anyway," said Dr. Dales.

"The reservoir capacity should be double what you have now," said Mr. Babcock.

"We have an ideal site over on Cotter St., where we can use gravity to drain the reservoir," said Dr. Dales.

"Is it your intention to fix up the old reservoirs for fire use?" asked Reeve F. A. Lumley.

"But we have so much more pressure now," replied Councillor A. D. Evans. "The firemen had a grass fire on Sunday. They said that the pressure was wonderful."

"Yes, a great difference," agreed Councillor Frank Bowser, a member of the fire brigade.

Reeve Fred A. Lumley asked Mr. Babcock if he were satisfied that the whiteness of the water is due to air.

Mr. Babcock said that it was and that he thought it would be cleared up by splashing in the reservoir.

The council passed a resolution asking the provincial board of health to pass a mandatory order for construction of the new plant, so that the approval of the municipal board may be obtained.

"Plans will be ready for tenders at the end of the month," said Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale. "The work won't be finished until the end of November."

NORTH YORK BOYS

N.C.O. in charge of each group of five men. A rubber sheet, three thick wool blankets and pilliasses, later filled with straw, served as a mattress. Then came a "medial," and a muster parade, by which time the men were ready in no uncertain terms for tea, equally as eatable as dinner.

The evening was spent until 'lights out' in getting acquainted with military routine, exploring the intricacies of the huge camp and a sports program.

"C" company, with a battery composed of Johnny Vandenberg and Aub. Barker of Newmarket, soundly trounced "A" company and installed themselves as natural favorites for the battalion title. Everyone was ready for a sound sleep, cooled after the hot day by a mild breeze from Lake Ontario.

It was 6 a.m. rising for everyone and the beginning of intensive training. Those mothers and wives who complain of a bit of untidiness in the home would never have recognized the boys as they washed their own dishes, piled their own kits in a line outside their tents, that hadn't the shade of a bend in it. The sun beat down in full vigor all day Monday, and sunburn and a coat of dirt were soon evident, and avoidpouls of a surplus nature began to disappear.

Rifle drill, anti-aircraft manoeuvres and work with the Vickers and Lewis machine-guns were carried out all day. Bedtime was a welcome hour for most of the men, only a few seeking passes to acquaint themselves with the night spots of Niagara-on-the-Lake.

On Tuesday work began with the pace stepped up a little from the day previous and so it will go until Aug. 17. A four-mile route march will be made to the rifle ranges and the Yorks will test their skill with the rifles. Many of the men will be making this trek, always a popular feature of camp life, for the first time.

"C" company is the largest company in camp, with 63 men and officers on strength. Second Lieut. G. S. Patchett, Toronto, has been added to the officers of the company, who include Capt. D. O. Mungovan, Lieut. K. M. R. Stiver, and Lieut. Earl Bales. Among the men from North York in camp are C.Q.M.S. F. I. Hewson, Sgts. J. S. Choppin, J. Hamilton, G. Hewson, T. A. M. Hulise and L. B. Rose, Corporals D. R. Bosworth, J. L. R. Bell, Reg. Southwood, Ken Brown, L.-Cpls. H. J. Lancashire, K. Osborne and W. C. Sanders, and Ptes. J. L. Alderson, E. W. Atkinson, A. H. L. Barker, R. V. Benville, J. M. Brown, J. D. Cadieux, J. G. Clarke, J. C. Dolan, Norm. Egan, H. A. Evans, W. H. Everest, O. I. Ewart, G. A. Gardner, Alex. Georgas, Cliff. Giles, A. G. Gleave, G. A. Graham, Albert Holman, G. F. Latimer, B. G. R. Long, R. D. Lunau, Hugh Muir, D. F. McGibbon, G. E. Myers, J. W. O'Halloran, J. S. Oton, E. K. Page, A. V. Peppiatt, J. D. Prior, C. R. Rutledge, Mickey Smith, Stan. Smith, Tom. Spence, R. W. Stickland, F. G. Tolle, J. F. Vandenberg, A. Barselaar, Ab. Watts and W. W. Young.

HEARD AT CAMP

She'd stood about as much as she could, but her enthusiastic partner in khaki seemed ready to go on forever. At last she became desperate.

"What's the difference between dancing and marching?" she asked him.

"I don't know," he replied. "I thought so," she snapped. "Shall we sit down for a while?"

NEWMARKET VETERANS PUT ON GRAND SHOW

By A.C.I. "FLASH" JASPER

Airmen from No. 1 manning depot, Toronto, journeyed to Newmarket Friday night to help stage a boxing show. The Newmarket Veterans made this their feature attraction of a benefit draw for prizes donated by local merchants. Opposition was drawn from Newmarket basic training camp.

The first event was a bout between two Newmarket youngsters, Forhan and Townsley, weighing 70 lbs. This was a crowd-pleasing fight, with Forhan showing a good left and winning by a considerable margin.

The second bout was a battle between Airman C. Cook, 130 lbs., hailing from California, and Prevost, Queen's Own Rifles, 127 lbs. The first round started out very fast, both boys hit hard and scored often with hard rights and lefts. A lot of action was packed in this round. Round even.

Second round, both boys continued their hard punching. Round even. The third round both boys landed hard rights and were very tired at the end of the fight. Prevost won by a narrow margin.

The third bout was a good close battle, B. Cahill, R.C.A.F., at 143 lbs. from Newfoundland, vs. Robertson, Q.O.R., 145 lbs. The first round was lightning fast, with Robertson firing a few nice right hooks and Cahill landing with a straight left jab. Robertson scored a knock-down with a hard right, helped by a stumble on the part of Cahill. Robertson's round.

The next round was even, with both boys landing rights and lefts to the face and body. Last round had lots of action, with the boys tiring near the end of the bout. Robertson the winner.

The next event was between G. Skutlencuk, R.C.A.F., 147 lbs., and Onyschuk, R.C.A.S.C., 145 lbs., both from Toronto. They started off slow and whipped into action, both showed a good right hand and landed often with it. The round finished with them slugging. Skutlencuk bombed Onyschuk with several hard punches to his midsection. Skutlencuk taking this round.

Skutlencuk landed a hard right hook for a knock-down. In a flurry of punches Skutlencuk cut over the left eye and the fight was stopped, Onyschuk getting the verdict by a T.K.O. Skutlencuk was awarded the special prize donated by Andy Davis, a well-known figure. This award was for the gamest loser.

The two entertaining Barber kids staged a special bout. These boys are trained and coached by their father, Cpl. Geo. Barber, a former Canadian champion. The bout was choked full of hard fighting, with both lads standing toe to toe and slugging it out.

The last round they started to get a little weary, but finished the round fighting hard. The decision went to George. The boys weighed in at 50 lbs.

The semi-final bout brought together two airforce boys, Everts from New York state, at 185, and Rawley, a Calgary cowpuncher, 195 lbs. The fight started out with fast and furious fighting.

Both these boys were exceptionally fast for heavyweights. Rawley landed often with a nice right hook and Everts showed a good left. Everts tied up Rawley repeatedly in the clinches.

The last round found both boys really fogging the rights and lefts in. It was a crowd-pleasing fight. Everts the winner.

The final event of the show was between G. Hofer, R.C.A.F., at 165 lbs. from St. Louis, Missouri, and Bardcar, 170 lbs., with the R.H.L.I. The first round started out with both men feeling each other out. Hofer showed an extra good straight left and continually blocked Bardcar's Sunday punches. Hofer's round by a good margin.

Both boys were warned for hitting in the clinches during the second round. Hofer started to go to town in this round and scored a knock-down, Bardcar taking a nine count. Hofer connected with a hard right and Bardcar dropped again. The referee, Cpl. Phil Rivers, stopped the fight. Hofer the winner by a T.K.O.

The judges were Stan. Smith, George Smith, and C. Peckover, R.C.E. The timekeeper was Frank Courtney. Referee was Cpl. Phil Rivers, former junior welterweight champion of Canada.

Cpl. Bill Evans, R.C.A.F. boxing instructor, and Cpl. Geo. Barber acted as coaches and seconds for the airforce fighters. A good crowd was on hand to witness a very pleasing card. The boys were banqueted after the bouts by Bill White, the Veterans' president.

J. L. Spillotte, Newmarket, arranged to bring these R.C.A.F. fighters to Newmarket to meet the camp boys.

NOT HIS ATTIRE

For some reason Bret Harte frequently found himself credited with the authorship of the popular poem, "Little Breeches," a distinction properly belonging to John Hay.

"My dear Mr. Harte, I am so delighted to meet you," exclaimed a gushing young lady. "I want to tell you how much I enjoyed reading your 'Little Breeches'."

"I thank you very kindly, madam," replied Harte, "but

NEWMARKET W. C. T. U.

The Downfall of France

Among all the glaring headlines telling of the conflict on land, sea and in the air, there appeared one small paragraph in the press of Aug. 17, which probably passed unnoticed by the majority of readers. It consisted of a single sentence and read: "The French government at its meeting yesterday approved the bill for 'Repression of Alcohol.' A. P. war special."

It was a curious "war special," yet it was, despite all the thrilling descriptions of the fighting, perhaps the most significant sentence in the paper. For it marked a desperate last minute attempt to repair the ravages of years, a death-bed repentance, a recognition at last of the dire fact, admitted by Marshal Pétain in his broadcast two days previously, that "Alcoholism is destroying our race."

Alcoholism, as a cause of national degeneration, has probably been more fatal to the French nation than to any other in the world. France had 32,000 drink shops. In addition, there were 500,000 other places where liquor was sold. Of 150,000 persons who died annually of tuberculosis 135,000 were alcohol drinkers. Insanity was rife, largely owing to the peculiar strength of the French alcoholic beverages, the absinthe, the liqueurs, the aperitifs, the brandy. The ravages of alcoholism were appalling. In one district it was stated that it had cost France an army corps.

It was prohibited early in the last war, but the drink-sellers and the victims of the craving, as in all countries, paid as little attention to the law as they dared. For years past the medical men of France have sounded the alarm—the academy of medicine, the great scientists of the Pasteur Institute, and others all over the country. For a time an attempt was made to stem the tide by education. Temperance teaching was introduced into the schools, and text-books were published and received public sanction.

Some years ago 10,000 French school-boys in Paris were given a piece of dictation, showing the dire effects of alcohol drinking.

Alcohol thus prepares the way for the moral and material ruin of the country by draining it of its life-blood and of its vital powers.

This comes from a model of which was held up as a model of moderation in drinking and whose customs we were repeatedly urged to imitate, on the grounds that to do so would promote sobriety.

But the warnings went unheeded; the wealthy manufacturers of the alcohol beverages, the vine-growers, the wine merchants, the half-million proprietors of the drink shops prevailed, and France went on her downward way to moral and material ruin.

Is there not a moral and a warning in all this, to all nations?

It is tragic that a nation should be destroyed by an enemy from without; but it is still more tragic that it should commit suicide.

U.S. TOURISTS

"One of the strongest appeals that Canada can offer the American vacationist," it advises, "is the fact that they can have one free day in ten from their holiday spendings in our country. Every cent they spend here goes back to the United States in war orders for circulation among their industrial workers."

"The Brighton Ensign, very neatly puts it this way: 'Citizens of the United States are Canadians' most welcome guests, with the tourist business counting so materially in our war effort. Therefore, it behooves all of us to pamper every American visiting this dominion.'"

"In this business of pampering, Leamington seems to have a unique character in its assistant chief of police. The Post and News tells us this official spends hours on end at a prominent intersection spotting American car license plates."

"Hello there, Uncle Sam!" he hails. "Just a minute, I've got something to give you."

"It startles them for a moment. 'What's wrong, Officer?' they ask. 'We haven't done anything wrong.'"

"I know you haven't, but so that you won't make any regrettable mistakes, I want to give you this circular," and he hands them a Chamber of Commerce folder, setting forth all the highlights in the attractions of the town and district and what is permitted me to say—you have put the little breeches on the wrong man."

offered for tourists and campers.

"The Fort Erie Times-Review has a lengthy list of amusing questions that customs officials at the Peace bridge have to answer. Here are a few of them and it will be noted that some of our cousins still think Canada is a polar region."

"Will the static up near you Arctic circle bother our radio? . . . Is it all right to fill out this card in the American language? . . . Do we have to drive on the left side of the road? . . . Will our automobile tank hold one of your Canadian gallons? . . . We want to know where they drill for maple syrup? . . . Is it right there are three pairs of twins in the quintuplets?"

"There is a butcher clerk in Simcoe who has a high opinion of Americans. We read in the Simcoe Reformer that a family from Milwaukee, stopping at Port Rowan, dropped into the store and bought a parcel of meat. Back at Port Rowan they discovered the clerk had wrapped his gold ring, set with a diamond, in with the meat. He got the surprise of his life when on Saturday evening, the Milwaukeeans returned his ring."

"The Waterdown Review records that a Carlisle couple, returning from a visit to the quaint, reported literally hundreds of American cars along the route and at Callander U. S. license plates outnumbered Canadian plates eight to one. That eight to one ratio, coincidentally, tallies with a report in the New Liskeard Speaker telling of the number of American fishing parties strung out toward the Lady Evelyn Lake region."
